

what actually happened; but I am probably not far off. When I say that a copy is itself perfect, I refer to the first hand. I have used the GA numbers, except for Ivron 2110, that has no GA number. Those who are acquainted with my work know that the family's archetypal form has been empirically determined, being the consensus of the collated MSS.

Matthew—I have collated 51 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; 2554 is perfect; 1072, 1117, 1461, 1496, 1652, 1713, Ivron 2110 had a perfect exemplar (presumed).

Mark—I have collated 53 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; none is perfect; GA 35 is complete;<sup>1</sup> 586, 2382 had a perfect exemplar.

Luke—I have collated 51 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; none is perfect; 2382 is virtually complete;<sup>2</sup> 789, 897 had a perfect exemplar.

John—I have collated 57 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; none is perfect; 2382 is complete; 1072 had a perfect exemplar.

Acts—I have collated 35 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; none is perfect; 35 is all but complete;<sup>3</sup> there are no perfect exemplars.

Romans—I have collated 37 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; 1482, 2554, 2723 are perfect; 35 is complete; 1249, 1855, 1865, 2466 had a perfect exemplar.

1 Corinthians—I have collated 34 f<sup>35</sup> MSS; 2554 is perfect; there are no perfect exemplars.

<sup>1</sup> AG 586; in 10:35 the sons of Zebedee are making a request: "Teacher, we want you to do for us whatever we (ἡμῖν) may ask". Instead of that, 586 has: "Teacher, we want you to do for us whatever ye (ὕμῖν) may ask"—manifest nonsense. The two letters received the same pronunciation, so someone hearing the text read would understand the first person without question. Even someone reading the text would perceive the obvious error and correct the text in his mind. Since 586 has only this one variant for the whole book, one letter, it is virtually perfect.

<sup>2</sup> In 2:40, instead of ἐπ' αὐτῷ, it has ἐπ' αὐτο (there is a split in the family at this point). The preposition ἐπὶ works with both the dative and the accusative cases, and the translation will be the same: "The grace of God was upon him". If these are two ways of saying the same thing, then 2382 is complete; if not, it is off by one letter for the whole book!

<sup>3</sup> In 1:11, instead of οὗτος Ἰησοῦς, it has οὗτος ὁ Ἰησοῦς. A demonstrative pronoun defines, even more than a definite article, so the article is redundant here; so they are two ways of saying the same thing: "this very Jesus". In 26:29 Paul is defending himself before king Agrippa. Instead of εὐξάμην, 'I would pray', it has εὐξάμην, 'I do pray'. The indicative is more direct than the optative, but the difference in meaning is slight. If these are not two ways of saying the same thing, then 35 is off by one letter, for the whole book of Acts!
